

MEDIA OWNERSHIP AND DEMOCRACY

Uni Tavor takes out top award. (1996, May 3). Post-Courier.

Waibauru, J. (1994, July 22). Frog's heads, old ashtrays and politics. Uni Tavor, p 10-11.

Dr David Robie was coordinator of the University of Papua New Guinea journalism programme in the early 1990s. This article is a revised version of a presentation drawn from part of a chapter in his doctoral thesis, Journalism Education in the South Pacific, 1975-2003: Politics, Policy and Practice. The presentation was delivered at the Journalism Education Association of New Zealand (Jeanz) conference at New Plymouth, 5-6 December 2003.

david.robie@aut.ac.nz

The Journalism Education Association (JEA) Conference 2004 is in the Fiji Islands on December 3-8. Hosting the conference is the University of the South Pacific Journalism Programme and the theme is "Media literacy in the Pacific and Asia".

Details on these websites:

JEA:
www.jea.org.au

Pacific Journalism Online (USP):
www.usp.ac.fj/journ/

Vol. 11 No 2, September 2005
Call for articles and commentaries:
Media ethics and accountability

Edition editors: Professor Claude-Jean Bertrand and Dr David Robie
Paris University and Auckland University of Technology

Articles are sought for publication in the September 2005 edition of Pacific Journalism Review. This themed edition will examine and critique issues of ethics in journalism, the press, radio, television and online news services, and also media accountability systems (MAS), particularly in the Asia-Pacific region. The editors are especially interested in articles or commentaries exploring themes such as:

- Media accountability systems (MAS) in the South Pacific with particular reference to the evolution of the Cook Islands, Fiji, PNG and Tongan media councils.
- The status of MAS in Australia and New Zealand.
- Ethical case studies in the region.
- Privacy and the media in Australia, New Zealand and the South Pacific.
- The use of civil and criminal defamation charges against media in the region.
- The role and accountability of the media during the attempted coup in Fiji in May 2000, the Bougainville civil war and/or the Solomon Islands ethnic conflict and the subsequent political discourse.
- Media accountability and ethics in New Caledonia, Tahiti and Wallis and Futuna.

Articles on other topics related to media and journalism theory and practice may also be considered. The journal has four main sections: research articles, commentaries, forum and reviews.

Style and presentation notes

Email the editor: pjreview@aut.ac.nz

Articles up to 6000 words

Commentaries 1500 to 3000 words

Reviews up to 1000 words

Forum contributions up to 800 words.

Submission deadline: April 30, 2005

Pacific Journalism Review:

www.pjreview.info

