

An exciting regional journalism programme located in the hub of the South Pacific

Established in 1989, the University of the South Pacific Journalism Programme has produced over 90 graduates working for 30 diverse media organisations in nine Pacific countries.

Practical hands on training, includes the publication of the Ossie Awards winning newspaper Wansolwara, Wansolvisin television programme and news for the campus radio station, Radio Pasifik, using modern equipment in a multi-media environment.

The programme is poised for major growth with new courses in communication and media studies to be offered soon.

DFL and Post Graduate courses will also become available shortly.

Join students from USP's 12 member countries and beyond for a unique and enriching cultural and academic journey.

Website: www.usp.ac.fj/journ
Suva, Fiji Islands. Tel : (679) 3232199

Email: singh\_sh@usp.ac.fj
Fax: (679) 3231556

The University of the South Pacific