The new face of journalism training

This is Mandy Smith and she's the new face of journalism training.

The Hawkes Bay Today reporter, a graduate of Massey University's journalism school, was the first journalist to be enrolled in the NZ Journalist

Training Organisation workplace training pilot programme, which has been rolled out in the country's newsrooms over the past six months.

Mandy and 19 other young journalists in newspaper, radio and TV newsrooms are working on the first two modules developed for a new advanced workplace qualification.
