

Australian Centre for Independent Journalism

Develop your media communication skills with an Australian Centre for Independent Journalism short course

The Australian Centre for Independent Journalism offers professional hands-on short courses in journalism and the media.

Classes are held during the day and at night. Courses include:

- Magazine feature writing
- Media law fundamentals
- Photojournalism essentials
- Shorthand: theory and speed development
- Subediting fundamentals
- Voice for radio & TV
- Writing for publication
- Writing for the web

Courses can also be tailored and delivered externally.

Class sizes are limited. Courses are delivered at the University of Technology, Sydney campus Ultimo.

Places are still available for courses starting November 2008.

For additional information, visit www.acij.uts.edu.au or contact our Short Course Co-ordinator Tameera Kemp on +61 2 9514 2488

The Australian Centre for Independent Journalism (ACIJ) is a non-profit organization based at the Broadway campus of the University of Technology, Sydney. The Centre is committed to supporting and developing high standards of independent journalism.